- 291 liaison visits
- 54 Foot patrols
- 11 interactions with intoxicated persons, which includes 9 persons being asked by Watchdog to depart and did so willingly, and 3 persons requiring the attendance of law enforcement.
- 1 audible alarm was noted from a local business; RCMP contacted and responded
- 5 obscurities (after hours) at a local businesses
- 4 requests for assistance, including 1 BOLO by the RCMP, 3 suspicious persons who departed on the arrival of patrol, and several requests for extra patrols. This does not include requests for assistance during non-operational hours. A liaison visit was conducted for these requests regardless.

- 7 significant activities:
 1. Watchdog Security observed two individuals fleeing from the vicinity of a local business while on patrol. Approaching the business, the patrol met with the owner, who stated he had received an alarm for the premises. RCMP was contacted, and the owner remained at the premises while Watchdog patrolled in an attempt to locate the subjects. When RCMP arrived, Watchdog Security advised them of the description and direction of the suspect's departure.
 2. Watchdog Security received a call from a local business regarding a shoplifting event. The caller was instructed to contact the RCMP. Watchdog attended the business and received a description of the perpetrator and the items taken. Later in their patrol routine, Watchdog personnel received information that the subject had attempted to sell the stolen property at a different local business. All relevant information was passed to the RCMP.
 3. During a liaison visit with a 24-hour business, Watchdog personnel learned an employee received a text message requesting they exit the building to receive a delivery for the business. When the employee asked the delivery to be brought into the building, the unknown person became insistent they exit the building, the employee declined. The employee was instructed to contact their management and the RCMP to report the incident.
 4. During patrols, Watchdog personnel observed a person exiting the donations area of a local business, carrying two bags. As it was suspected they were removing items from the donation area; patrol cautioned them that this action constituted theft. As the person rode their bicycle away, they stated, "I did not know." Shortly thereafter, Watchdog noted a broken window of another local business in the vicinity. RCMP contacted and attended to clear the building. Patrol relayed the information they observed regarding the donation bins, including a description of the person and the bags they were carrying. Coupled with video coverage of the break and enter, this description resulted in the identification and apprehension of the culprit.
 5. While conducting a patrol of a local business, the audible intrusion alarm sounded. RCMP were contacted, attended, and cleared the scene. During a follow-up liaison visit with the owner, he stated his video coverage of the compound showed a person from the patrol's vantage point by items stored in the compound.
 6. RCMP requested Watchdog Security advised them regarding the whereabouts of a person of interest. Watchdog personnel observed this person at a local business later that evening. RCMP were notified and were able to make contact with and arrest that person.
